

TRADITIONAL POLICING VS. 21ST CENTURY POLICING

Traditional Policing

- Manageable number of problems
- Arrest is a primary tool
- Numbers oriented
- Incident driven
- “Us” vs “Them” mentality
- Citizens call 9-1-1
- “We do it FOR the community”
- Reactive policing
- We let it happen
- Police, government agencies, and citizens are reluctant to share information
- Citizens do not interact with neighbors and community
- Officers focus on call response and criminal arrest
- Citizens believe the police should solve their problems
- Government agencies schedule and deliver services

21ST Century Policing

- Overwhelming number of problems
- There are additional tools to solve problems
- Results oriented
- Proactive problem solving
- Police-community partnerships
- Citizens meet and work with police and government agencies to solve problems
- “We do it WITH the community”
- Proactive policing
- We make it happen
- Police, government, and citizens recognize the value of sharing information
- Citizens unite to form active neighborhood and community groups
- Officers focus on crime reductions and crime prevention
- Citizens are active partners with police to solve community problems
- Government agencies are active partners in solving community problems and delivering services
